News / Asia-US East Coast spot rate climb stalls – but is it just a blip?

By Alexander Whiteman 28 August 2026

Indices appear uncertain how to price spot rates this week, but what seems clear is that the Asia-US East Coast trade's substantive growth trajectory of recent weeks has hit a bump – the question is whether this is a blip or something more transformative.

According to Drewry's World Container Index (WCI), spot pricing on its Shanghai-New York routing dropped 2% week on week, hitting $9,333 per 40ft, while the traditionally more resilient Shanghai-LA route went from 9% growth last week to flat this week, at $6,818 per 40ft.

Indications are that the east coast dip may have been something of a blip, Drewry noting it expects resilience in demand, and the ability of the carriers to manage capacity will mean "freight rates remain less volatile next week".

Successful RoRo Transit Project | Jeddah Seaport to Dubai

TA Logistic Services (Saudi Arabia) recently completed a major transit project involving the clearance and cross-border movement of 60 trucks arriving at Jeddah Seaport by RoRo.

Our team handled the complete transit customs clearance process at Jeddah Seaport and coordinated the onward transportation of the trucks to Dubai via lowbed trailers, including customs clearance at both Al Batha and Al Silaa border crossings.

The project also involved the use of 25 lowbed trailers as part of the transportation and logistics requirements.

This project demonstrates TA Logistic Services (Saudi Arabia)'s capability to manage complex and time-sensitive cargo movements across Saudi Arabia and the GCC. From port operations and customs clearance to cross-border transportation and final delivery coordination, our team managed the project from start to finish.

With our strong operational network across Saudi Arabia and the GCC, TA Logistic Services (Saudi Arabia) continues to support customers with reliable solutions for project cargo, RoRo shipments, heavy and specialized cargo, customs clearance, and cross-border transportation.

We are pleased to share some photographs from the project for inclusion in the FFN Newsletter.

For any project cargo or specialized logistics enquiries, please contact Mr. Shahzad Butt, who leads the project cargo operations.
